

Even if your television or VCR has a great picture, it does not help much if the cable carrying the image and sound is not of similarly high quality. This handy cable ensures optimum image and sound transmission between your devices. The connectors are gold-plated and the cable itself is double-shielded and has ferrite cores to ensure optimum image reproduction.